

Fishing

Great Smoky Mountains National Park is a wonderful place to catch fish. With about 800 miles of streams with fish, there are plenty of good fishing spots. Fishermen like to catch big bass, rainbow trout and brook trout, which some people call "brookies." Brookies are the only trout native to the park.

Help the fisherman above connect his fishing line to the brook trout at the other end of the maze.

