

Monarch Butterfly

The Monarch Butterfly migrates, or flies south, for the winter. These butterflies can travel up to 100 miles per day on their way to Mexico, where they stay for the winter. As they pass through the Smoky Mountains, some of them are caught by scientists. A sticker is placed on their wings, so scientists can track where they go.

True or false? Monarch Butterflies are poisonous.

