Black & Brown Faces in America's Wild Places

African Americans Making Nature and the Environment a Part of Their Everyday Lives (20th Anniversary Edition)

DUDLEY EDMONDSON

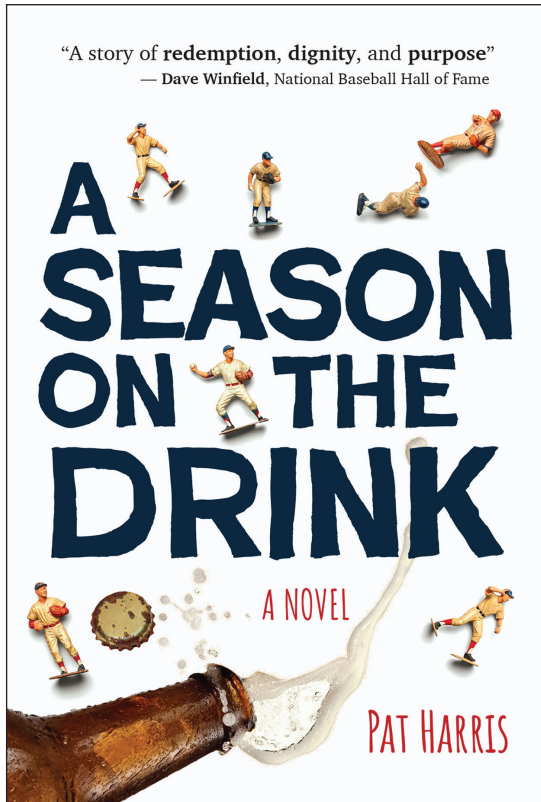

During his travels as a wildlife photographer, Dudley Edmondson made a concerning observation: He was the only person of color in many of the wilderness locations he visited. The matter was far too important to let go. Dudley turned it into a project, seeking out people of color who thrive in the outdoors and asking them about their experiences, passions, and hopes for the future. The compilation of his interviews became the groundbreaking book Black & Brown Faces in America's Wild Places.

This 20th Anniversary Edition features 20 personal stories from across the USA, told by African Americans with strong connections to the natural world. There is a bit of American history—and personal history—in every account. They provide a foundation for discussion about the future of our wild places and hopefully encourage people of color to take up the torch of conservation and carry it forward on behalf of all future generations.

DUDLEY EDMONDSON

Dudley is an established photographer, author, filmmaker, and presenter. His photography has been featured in galleries and publications around the world. In 2006, he set out to create a group of outdoors role models for the nation's African American community by writing the landmark book Black & Brown Faces in America's Wild Places. During the Obama Administration, Dudley's book landed him an invitation to the White House for the signing of America's Great Outdoors Initiative. He is also the author of People the Planet Needs Now.

"A story of challenge, hope, and coming together as a team to do something extraordinary that can transform—even for a moment . . . It's a story of redemption, dignity and purpose."

A Season on the Drink

A Novel

PAT HARRIS

Marty's fast-pitch softball team is far from typical. He and his unlikely teammates represent the Residence, a haven for chronic alcoholics—where forgotten men, written off by society, drown in their addictions. Yet they find something worth fighting for on a dusty Minnesota baseball diamond: their dignity.

Based on a true story, A Season on the Drink chronicles this raw, unforgettable tale of redemption. Pat Harris masterfully weaves together themes of addiction, friendship, and resilience in this gripping narrative that transcends traditional sports literature. The story reveals the transformative power of community and the unexpected joy found in life's darkest corners.

PAT HARRIS

Pat is a former elected official on the Saint Paul (Minnesota) City Council, a consultant in the public financial industry for over two decades, and a lifelong community activist and leader. He has served on numerous nonprofit boards, and he has been honored with multiple awards, including two Emmy Awards for a project he spearheaded that generated over one billion media impressions. He has a B.A. in English from Marquette University and an M.B.A. from the University of Minnesota.
